Culturally Responsive Practice and Leadership are essential skills noted in the OLAC Framework and the Ohio Improvement Process.

Research about the achievement of diverse students confirms that ALL students achieve given the right learning conditions. Culturally responsive leadership proves essential in bringing about the “right conditions.” This course explores leadership practices that promote the achievement of all students, close achievement gaps, and eliminate disproportionality.

Course Objectives:

- Examine practices effective in closing achievement gaps and addressing disproportionality and discuss the implications for systems change.
- Explore the characteristics of culturally responsive leadership.
- Learn from district leaders demonstrating culturally responsive leadership skills in their daily practice.
